Mr. Perez:

After reading Michelle Singletary's article in the Sept 13th Washington Post I am writing to speak in favor of writing language around retirement savings investment advisors that would have them look out for the interest of the client.

My interest in this is from recent experience. I am about to retire. I've waded through many options for my 403Bs including rolling them over to an IRA. If I roll my savings over, where should I invest to be sure I have money when I need it? I'm sorting through the options but frankly I don't know who is providing me advice in my best interests. I feel like the odds are stacked against the individual investor and in favor of the large financial institutions.

I'm hoping you will be successful in looking out for individual investors. If I can provide help or other information please let me know.

Sincerely,
